New tenants

Since December 1st we have been welcoming askui GmbH to the Technologie Park Karlsruhe. askui enables software developers to build an automated digital world by providing a UI automation solution that brings vision to your Code for the automation of any use case on any operating system. The idea behind this is wanting to live in a world where humans are freed from being robots.

Mercedes-Benz Tech Innovation GmbH, on the other hand, is not new to the TPK, but has been represented here since 2017 and operated under the name Daimler TSS GmbH until March 31, 2022. As the largest German software development subsidiary, the company develops technological innovations, digital products and future-oriented software solutions exclusively for Mercedes-Benz. The goal: to drive the transformation of the group in the direction of „100% digital“ and set new standards for car connectivity and the digitization of vehicles and sales.

„TPK Bees“ project

The „TPK Bees“ project not only contributes to improving the food and livelihood of the bees. It also offers the possibility of sponsoring interested tenants in the TPK to advertise their own company and the „Honey made in TPK“ brand. It also makes a contribution to the topic of „sustainability“.

A proportionate yield of honey is made available to all participating companies. You can sweeten the Christmas season for your customers and employees in compliance with this, for example. The individual design of the label print is of course up to each company. We therefore cordially invite everyone to participate in our „TPK Bees“ project. Further information and details on the „TPK Bees“ project can be obtained from tpk@techpark.de. We look forward to your interested replies.

No cash payment in the casino from January 2023
